AZALEA GRAVEL MINE TO BE OPENED

ARCHIBALD WINS OVER THE WESTERN

Jurist in Written Opinion Filed Saturday Holds Plaintiffs Entitled to Foreclose on Mortgage Given to Secure the Payment of Note to the Banner Mines Consolidated

It is reported that work will be resumed shortly at the Azalea gravel mine, two and a half miles west of Blue Canyon. The Azalea company was an organization o fconductors, engineers and railroad empolyes formed for the purpose of tapping a lava capped gravel channel supposed to exist under the ridge lying between the railroad and Canyon creek above Towles.

The tunnel was driven northwesterly into the clay slates 550 feet vertically under the main line of the Southern Pacific. The property was working in 1902 and at that time the main tunnel had been driven 3332 feet, with a number of upraises. They picked up the east rim of the channel at the end o fa raise 190 feet above the main tunnel, but the ground swelled so badly on exposure to the air that the raise had to be abandoned.

The wash was clean, well rounded quartz gravel and is supposed to be the same channel as that pasing from the Alta shaft at Alta up through the Lynn and Lee ranches and commonly known at Dutch Flat as the Nary Red Channel. At Nary Red, which lies between Dutch Flat and Alta, this channel was hydraulicked in early days and was unusually rich. Its notable characteristic is the percentage of quartz boulders it contains—being fully 90 per cent. For more than 40 years these quartz boulders have been shipped, at first to the Sacramento shops of the Esspee where they were used as flux in the melting of iron, and of late years to Pittsburg and Stockton for use in glazing and enameling.

As much as $1.50 per ton on the ground has been paid for these boulders because they seem to be particularly adapted for this purpose, being quite free from iron. It is estimated that more than 250,000 tons have been shipped from Dutch Flat in the last 40 years.

The trough of the channel at the Azalea has never been exposed, in fact no work of any nature has bben done along this channel above Alta which is five miles west along its course and it would seem that further developments at this property are most promising.

Judge Raglan Tuttle in a decision handed down Saturday, ruled that the interests headed by A. R. Archbald of the New England company was justified in bringing its foreclosure proceedings against the Western Mines Consolidated. This means that the plaintiffs can go ahead and perfect their title in and to valuable mining properties in the Nevada Basin which will mean so much to Nevada City when once the rich properties which have been idle for a number of years, will be put to work again.

The next step will be to bring foreclosure proceedings through sheriff's sale and perfect the title. It is sincerely to be hoped that this will mean extensive operations within the next year or so. R. F. D. Lemmon, one of the directors of the Banner Consolidated stated to The Nugget the past few days that some large developments may be confidently expected shortly.

W. E. Wright who acted as attorney for the Archibald interests thruout the litigation, handled the case in a masterly manner.

The full text of Judge Tuttle's decision is printed on page five of this issue.

MASON JOINS GOERING ROUND MOUNTAIN MINE

G. H. Mason has taken a working interest in the Henry Goering mining properties in the Round Mountain district the past week. The tunnel which has been driven by Mr. Goering is now in 100 feet and destined to cut the gravel channel. There are 180 acres of placer ground in the property which prospects well in values.

In running the tunnel several quartz stringers have been cut which show good ore but they will be saved for future prospecting as the intention is to cut the gravel as soon as possible.

MUGWUMP MINE HIT BY THE BIG STORM

The Mugwump mine just below Forest suffered approximately $1500 damage as the result of the big storm of last week. The high water washed out several hundred feet of snow sheds and at one time was up to the mouth of the tunnel. The crew were ready to pull out the electric motors at that time but it did not become necessary. The drift is now in about 600 feet and making good progress.

CLAYTON CHATFIELD HAS LEASE ON COAN MINES

Clayton Chatfield has taken a bond and lease on the Thomas Coan mining properties west of town by virtue of papers recorded the past week. The properties are situate in Section 3, Township 16 North, Range 8 East.

DEL'S CAFE OPENS DOORS NEXT THURSDAY MORN

Nevada City newest eating parlors opens its doors next Thursday morning on Broad street, when Dels' Cafe which has been made all spick and span gets under way. Jn. Del-Raoulls of many years experience as a chef will preside at the range and dispense tasty dishes daily. A specialty will be made of chicken and raviola dinners on Sundays and a merchants' lunch will be served weekdays. A delicatessen will also be operated and the Kopp Bakery line will be handled.

There ares private dining rooms and tables for ladies. Gas will be used for cooking and modern equipment has been installed throughout. A large hood over the range will carry off all odors and heat. The interior has been all newly painted and papered and presents an attractive appearance.

Monsieur Del-Raoull started out as a culinary artist when he was but 14 years of age in the Grand Central in Paris and has seen wide experience as a chef. He attained quite a reputation in Downieville some years ago when he baked an immense cake for the Native Daughters which was all decorated in real style.

PINE GROVE RESERVOIR GATE IN A CLOSE CALL

FRENCH CORRAL, March 31 (Special to The Nugget)—Rain! Rain! Rain! What a week it has been! At last writing we were glad to hear the "patter on the roof"—but oh! how glad we were when it ceased, for who expected such a deluge? Although French Corral did not suffer any particular damage we knew others were suffering and we were in constant dread of what might be.

Pine Grove reservoir had a close call as they feared the waste gate would go out. A crew of men was hastily summoned and work was done to save it. The past few days of sunshine are welcome indeed, although at this writing the sky looks gray and more rain is threatened.

The meeting dates of the newly formed Women's Club in Nevada City are to be the 1st and 3d Thursdays of each month, instead of the 1st and 3d Tuesdays as mentioned in these columns last issue.

Wm. Lackland of North San Juan was a business visitor in our city Saturday and reports storm conditions in his district as much improved.

HOMESTAKE RESUMES OPERATIONS SHORTLY

Operations are exepected to commence shortly at the Homestake property in the Steep Hollow district, owned by C. E. Martz and son, C. E. Jr. The snow is off the ground. Drifting will be resumed to cut the back gravel channel. This property has shown excellent returns from its gravel in past operations.

ROBERTS SISTERS TENT SHOW COMING SOON

The Roberts Sisters Tent Show which has been winning many friends in the lower country by its clean-cut type of shows and its excellent vaudeville features is billed for a week's stay at Hills Flat between Grass Valley and Nevada City commencing next Monday night, April 9th.

So well received were they at Auburn that they made a two week stop there and were greeted by large audiences. They played Modesto ten weeks under canvas and at other points in the lower country, they have been given a flattering reception. The opening bill is "The Unwanted Child." Jack Sullivan was in town Friday arranging for the week's stay and ordered generous space in The Nugget.

SERVICE CLUBS STAGE A WOOLLY EXHIBITION

In one of the most excruciatingly funny exhibitions of the great indoor pastime, the Nevada City Lions and the Grass Valley Rotarians staged a wild "basket ball" game Friday night that ended in a tie score. After the smoke of battle had cleared away there were no casualties reported, but well verified rumor has it that the local drug stores were sold out on liniment early Saturday.

Football, baseball, soccer, rugby, wrestling matches and leap frog all featured the melee and it was against the rule to call any fouls or balls out of bounds, Jim Dolan being too busy collecting fines for the "kitty" to even keep out of the way of the panting athletes. It was a scream from start to finish and the large crowd was near collapse from laughing at the antics on the floor.

One thriller was indulged in by a prominent, local matron when the heavy artillery of the timber barked the close of the first half. She was adjacent to the spot and under her sudden "setzen zie sich" was promptly executed sans delay and sans grace.

The high school A and B teams staged the preliminary and the A aggregation which was held down in the first half romped away to a commanding lead in the closing period and were never in danger.

The proceeds of the evening went to the Boy Scouts.

JEFFORDS HAVE FORMAL OPENING THIS MIDWEEK

The formal opening of the new W. R. Jefford and Son Funeral Parlors on Main Street will be held on Wednesday and Thursday of this week, and the genral public is cordially invited to visit the new place between the hours of nine and five those days and view the wonderful transformation that has been accomplised in the former Congregational structure.

The builders and artisans have wrought well in the conversion and the entire interior of the building is a pleasing effect to the eye.

Entering the beveled glass entrance doors one finds a commodious lobby opening into the oiffces on the right, a staired hallway on the left and a commodious chapel to the front. A formal invitation is extended in another column of this issue by Mr. W. R. Jefford and Mrs. Lionel R. Jefford.

Charles Lane, a pioneer resident of Grass Valley, passed away at the county hospital Saturday. He came to Grass Valley in 1858 and was a member of the Howell Zouaves. The funeral services are being held from the Jefford Parlors in Grass Valley this afternoon.

OAKVALE MINE TUNNEL PROGRESSING NICELY

Work is progressing satisfactorily at the Oakvale mine in the Steep Hollow district with the driving of the new tunnel which is now in 150 feet and making good progress. The former tunnel was too high to cut the bedrock under the gravel channel and the water which fairly boiled up was too much to handle easily. The new tunne l should give plenty of depth. It is planned to drive the new tunnel 350 feet in and then raise to the channel. Major de Bertodano is in charge of operations.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR TO THE METHODIST CHURCH

The annual Easter service of the Knights Templar of Nevada Commandery will be held this year at the Methodist church and the sermon will be preached by the Rev. H. H. Buckner. BOY SCOUTS ENJOY FINE SESSION, GRASS VALLEY

The second annual Patrol Leaders Conference of Tahoe Council, Boy Scouts of America, embracing the 19 troops of Nevada and Placer counties, was held at Grass Valley Friday evening and all day Saturday. Seven of the second class Scouts of Nevada City Troop No. 6 registered for the conference and attended both sessions.

The activities commenced Friday evening about 6 o'clock with supper served in the Elks' banquet room after which the first business of the conference was discussed. The meeting was similar to an ordinary convention, the visiting patrol leaders acting as delegates from their respective troops and the entire program and meeting was conducted by the boys themselves.

Friday evening, Dr. S. B. Bleadon, Auburn dentist, gave an exhibition of making plaster of paris models of various articles. The doctor showed the boys how to make impressions in moulding clay with objects such as Scout emblems or leaves and then how to reproduce the form of the original object in the plaster from the clay impressions. The local boys were keenly interested in this work and several of them brought back models which they made following the demonstration.

The main business of the meeting was disucession by the visiting Scouts of addresses made by older Scouts on the three subjects: Leadership, Character and Education. Following the delivery of each talk, all the Scouts divided into separate groups and individaully discussed notes each had made on the subject last discussed. The local Scouts received much valuable information from the conference, and will pass it on to the other members of the local troop at future meetings.

Saturday afternoon, State Fire Warden W. F. Sharp took the Scouts and Scout officials for an interesting hike from Memorial Park in Grass Valley to Osborne Hill. Mr. Sharp pointed out to the boys the various kinds o ftrees, bushes, birds and flowers observed on the trip, the scouts keeping notes on all the varieties discovered.

Saturday night about a dozen friends and parents of the local Scouts went to Grass Valley and attended the banquet which brought the conference to a close. The final business of the meeting was transacted, including reports of the findings committee on the benefits and knowledge received at the conference and a report of the resolutions committee, thanking the Elks lodge and the Memorial Park officials for the use of their buildings, and expressing appreciation to all the other individuals whose donations and services helped make the Conference a success. Mrs. J. H. Hansen was presented with a ffne leather purse as an expression of the boys for her interest in them. Mrs. Hansen had charge of the "nosebag" end of the conference and very capably perfor-

CITY ELECTION IS DRAWING NEAR DO YOUR DUTY

Next Monday, one of the best contested muncipal elections in a number of years owing to the fact that there are seven candidates for three positions as city trustees, and the proposition of putting the trustees on a modest salary basis.

Some of the candidates are frankly making an effort to win votes and are working to that end. The editorial on page two of this issue should be given a careful reading by every qualified voter.

The following covers in brief interviews with the various candidates who were willing to be quoted on their aims and aspirations:

C. R. MURCHIE

"I haven't given much thought to the matter as yet. I am not making any elaborate promises as to what I would do. My thirty two years experience in the business life of this city should speak for itself.

AL SEAMAN

One of the leading candidates in the race for trustee next Monday is Al Seaman, long time resident of Nevada City and well known. He has lived here since 1872 and is actively engaged in business at the present time. He feels that if elected he will give his best efforts in behalf of the taxpayers and citizens and work for an efficient business administration of the city's affairs at all times. Al has always given of his best in anything he went into and it is a safe bet that he would do the same as a city trustee. He has shown too that he is interested in securing the place and not leaving all the work to his friends to do.

LOUIS KOPP

Louie is not much on being interviewed, The Nugget representative found out after several visits. But considering the large investments that the Kopps, father and son, have made in Nevada City the past few years is the best gauge of what they think of our city. They are worthy citizens in every sense of the word.

A. H. HADDY

A. H. Haddy who has had previous experience as a city trustee elsewhere expresses his views quite completely in his announcement on the back page of this issue.

MR. ARMSTRONG

Mr. W. J. Armstrong who has extensive mining interests at Forest in Sierra county, has recently made a large investment in Nevada City in the shape of one of the finest homes that the city boasts. His bashfulness prevents a statement from him.

MR. PENROSE

Jim Penrose as he is popularly termed by his many friends, said he was too busy tending store to give the trustee race yet, much serious thought. By the attention he has given his business and the long hours he has put in, he has made a real success of it ,which after all is the criterion by which we should be judged.

BENJ. HALL

When asked by The Nugget as to his aims and intents should he be elected trustee, Mr. Benj. Hall stated that it was time enough to cross bridges when you got to them. He has been a long time resident of Nevada City.

DAN McGONIGLE IS SHOWING FINE ROCK

Dan McGonigle was in town from Downieville several days last week and was displaying some jewelry rock that came out of his country that was beautiful to gaze upon. He with Al Austin and Al Hincher are operating the Big Boulder property under lease from the Sierra Highland Corporation of San Francisco. Ground sluicing operations are under way but will not be continued long owing to the short water season.

The property which comprises 700 acres of placer ground is close to the Plumas county line and is rich ground. Prospecting will be carried on during the summer.

Arthur W. Hoge, Jr. was up from Stanford University for a few days' visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Hoge.

NEXT MONDAY'S ELECTION

THE ELECTORATE of Nevada City has an important duty to perform next Monday, that of electing three persons to places on the muncipal governing board of our fair city. There are seven candidates, some of them on the ballot by their own volition and eager to serve to the best of their ability. It resolves itself into putting on the board three men who are willing and eager to accept the responsibility of handling the city's business at all times. Those men who are entering into the spirit of the campaign and advertising the fact to the voters that they are eager to win a place, are entitled to the thanks of the voters, because at times in the past it has been necessary to draft citizens to fill out a ticket. That of itself is an unhealthy sign and it is a fortunate symptom that this condition does not obtain this year.

RUNNING A CITY government is not the easiest thing in the world, in fact, it usually the one job whereon the holder is the recipient of various and sundry kicks and growlings for what is done as well as what isn't done during the term of office. It requires a lot of fortitude and patience to listen to the complaints of the curbstoners. Complaining is the easiest thing in life apparently and public officials seem to be the most popular targets. There is a lot of mental compensation, however, in the thought that a person is doing his civic duty and in this lies the reason for certain of our citizens being willing to offer themselves for the post of trustee.

COMPENSATION FOR THE TRUSTEES is an important thing for the voters to consider in all its aspects. The fact t hat it means an outgo of $600 per year in addition to the other running expenses of the city, is beside the point in its larger aspect. There isn't a person in Nevada City who would think of asking any one to work for absolutely nothing on a private piece of work and yet a city trustee has so far in this city in all its years been asked to work four years for nothing and endure a lot of complaining and sometimes abuse in addition. Nevada City is possibly behind the times in keeping her city trustees on a donation basis. This is one of the very few cities of its size in the state today that is still clinging to the old fashioned idea of donation service. Grass Valley is paying $10 a month, and every other incorporated city hereabouts that is up and doing, is paying its city servants. It is freely predicted on the streets that the idea of paying the trustees anything is going to get an awful swat at the polls, for fear that the tax rate will get a large boost. The Nugget cannot subscribe to the latter idea. If a few cents extra on the tax rate is necessary that our city may keep in line with other uptodate muncipalities, this paper is more than willing to pay its prorata and demand the highest type of public service in return. Every taxpayer this year is paying 20c in his tax budget for a swimming pool that hasn't progressed beyond the stage of selling the interest bearing bonds and yet there hasn't been an unusual amount of howling over the matter. The trifling amount to pay the trustees would be but a few cents on the hundred dollars even if it were necessary to raise the rate and that hasn't been shown yet as a necessity. The salaries that are paid here are niggardly, to use the blunt truth. We cannot ask or expect the highest type of service if we are to continue in that manner. The matter will have to be taken up at some future time if not now. Shall we place ourselves in the front rank of progressive municipalities or shall we hang back on past history? Don't look on this paper as being querulous in the matter. We are going to have to spend money if we want the good things of lfie, and that applies to city trustees' salaries as well as to the things we eat and the clothes we wear. The movement to pay city trustees a modest stipend for their efforts is a forward looking one, and not a backward one. It has our hearty commendation and our vote.

MINING CONTINUES TO STEP right along this spring. There is every indication of activity on a scale that will dwarf previous operations before the year passes. This may sound pretty optomistic but nevertheless it's our solemn conviction. The present indications are not confined to Nevada and Sierra counties alone but it extends to every part of California where mining is followed. Dabbling in oil is not as popular as it has been for some years with the result that gold mining is coming back again into its own. Watch us go! Nothing to worry about mining not coming back! AAW

CAMPTONVILLE HIT BY THE BAD STORM

CAMPTONVILLE, Mar. 31, (Special to The Nugget)— One of the worst storms in many years ended Tuesday evening with a flurry of snow and sleet, putting a chill in the air which probably finished the peach, cherry and plum blossoms which were in full bloom.

The highway and roads were the worst affected in this section, the California highway between Nevada City and Downieville giving way the worst. The large slide took place about seven miles north of here near Indian Creek where a large piece of the mountain slid over the road, stopping all traffic for several days. The stage was also blocked, making it necessary for a stage to come up from Nevada City and relay the mail around the slide to be taken on to Downieville.

The river was higher than it had been for many years, coming into the highway in several places at Indian Valley. In Downieville it flooded several homes along its banks, the occupants having to flee and remove their furniture.

Many small culverts and footbridges were carried away, and the old county steel bridge over the river at Indian Valley was swept down the current by the swollen stream.

The Marysville-Camptonville road between Dobbins and this place held up in better shape than any of the others, including the state highway. There were few or no slides on it, and no washouts or other damage to hinder traffic, and the Marysville stage was the only one running up to schedule.

Many people headed for Downieville or Sierra City had to stop over here several days until the highway could be cleared for traffic again.

MRS. CALVIN ENTERTAINS

Mrs. M. G. Calvin entertained a number of her friends last Saturday evening at her home on Main Street, her birthday being the reason for the occasion. Even though the storm was raging full blast without, a merry time took place within, and those present greatly enjoyed assisting Mrs. Calvin pass another milestone on her life's journey.

The evening was spent in cards and other suitable amusements, and at a late hour delicious refreshments were served, the party proving a very delightful affair. Those present were: Mesdames Frank M. Groves, Eugene H. Hays, Leonard L. Bishop, Laurel C. Ruff, Misses Mary M. Groves Lydia O. Groves.

A BIT OF HISTORY

Historian's sometimes, are irritating people: they mark this year or that as a notable event because such and such a battle was fought that year, or some half-forgotten King came to the throne—when as a matter of fact, what interests us most, is how people lived, what they bought, the prices they paid for things, and so on—facts, in other words, that you and I have to face today.

It is as trues now as it was in the past, that your reliable local merchants areimportantfactors in the community, making for stability and progress. Every dollar spent here helps this section. Dollars spent elsewhere build up other sections.

SISKIYOU GHOST CITIES DOT THE LANDSCAPE

(Thelma Sheehan in Siskiyou Times)

Dotting the rugged, scarred face of Cities rise and cities fall. Change is the law of the living. Man builds—moves on and Nature takes unto herself that which was hers in the beginning.

Dotting the rugged, scared face of Siskiyou are numerous ghost cities of those hectic, glorious days of the "fifties" and "sixties". Like Goldsmith's "Deserted Village," they stand neglected and decaying, quietly drifting into oblivion. Like mushrooms, they sprang up overnight. Some were improved and others fell as they rose—between the dusk and the dawn.

Hovering over these ghost cities are myths more strange, perhaps than legendaries of the ancients. If walls might speak, what half-told tales of a glory whose height spelled tragedy as well as success, whose triumph was progress, and whose men were builders, they could relate.

Prior to 1850, the prospector, the emigrant, the traveler—each passed through what is now Siskiyou, from the north to the south and from the south to the north and this region remained an almost unknown wild.

Then Coloma and Sutter's Mill on the American River. Gold! As if carried on the wings of the wind, the whispered word spread, and soon every stream in California that showed the least trace of "color" had its quota of industrious miners. Farther up the streams they pressed—the Calaveras, Stanislaus, Mokelumne, and Yuba rivers; the Sacramento, Feather, Trinity, Scott, Klamath, and Shasta—outposts of civilization.

Eager men were they, with a vision of fabulously rich "diggings"; impelled onward by a phantom wealth, which had for years been eluding their grasp and leading them on. Always in sight, but never in reach, they continued to chaseth lure that is ever beyound.

Gold First Discovered

Gold was first discovered in Siskiyou county at Scott Bar in 1850 by John Scott and party. They had crossed from the forks of the Salmon and followed up Scott river to the mouth of Mill Creek. One of the party went to a spring near the river for a bucket of water, and in dipping it gathered a number of lumps of gold. On being asked to hurry with the bucket of water he replied that he had something far better than water.

The first Scott Bar stood on the triangle point of land between Quartz Hill and Mill Creek, and was never greater than a few log cabins. When the mining became more extensive and on a larger scale, the main town sprang up on the present site, and the old Scott Bar was torn down and obliterated.

Nearly four score years have seen the rise and fall of Scott Bar and still today, some of the old buildings stand. The Wells Fargo express office, built in 1852 is still intact and the vault where millions of dollars of dust has been kept—the daily output of each claim stored in its buckskin "poke" and placed there for safekeeping—will be standing when all other trace is gone.

Was Largest Town

Time was when Scott Bar was the largest town in the county and polled a vote of two thousand. Those were glorious days, when the hills resounded to the rattle of the rocker, the shout of the packer, and the coarse laugh of the miner; when a "pinch" of dust was the price of a drink and Saturday night was a night of revelry, the miners coming for miles to a dance. The dances usually closed with the lively tunes "Pop Goes the Weasel," "Arkansas Traveler," or "Dog Eat a Rye Straw," and then all promenade to "Whiskey," "Balls." Anthony Milne, Scott Bar's oldest inhabitant called them, when asked concerning those nights of pleasure.

"There were generally three dances," Mr. Milne stated. "One at Scott Bar, one at Frenchtown, and one at Johnson's Bar. A party would leave Scott Bar for the dances below, while parties from the lower towns would come to Scott Bar, stopping for a time at each dance along the river. In this way they would keep going back and forth from one dance to the other till morning.

Anthony Milne is ninety-five years old and a hearty man for his age. He came to Diamond Springs in Eldorado county in May, 1852. From there he went to Grass Valley and Trinity county and in 1856 to Athouse, Josephine county, Oregon. There he found gold, but like all miners, always in search of something better he sold his claim that was paying $80 a day and that paid an ounce a day to the man for three years afterwards, and with $4500 went to the Fraser river excitement. In 1863 he came to Scott Bar, "broke" and a wiser man.

Milne has mined on Scott river and with the years watched Johnson's Bar, Simonville, and Frenchtown slowly disappear till there is no trace of them left.

"People traveling through were treated a darn sight better then than today." Mr. Milne said between puffs of his pipe. And when assured he would no doubt reach the century mark, he replied: "You never can tell."

The business section of Scott Bar was destroyed by fire in 1853 and the town was rebuilt on higher gound. In 1857 a theatre was built by John Breckenridge. It was a frame structure with gallery, stage and scenery, and was visited by Lotta, Chapmans, Chirsties Minstrels, and many other attractions. The miners attended from all along the river.

The winter of 1852—53 was the most serious in the history of Scott Bar. The snow commenced at Christmas and lasted twenty-six days. All travel and work was tied up. No provisions could be brought in and those on hand were quickly exhausted. Meat brought in from the hills was eaten without salt or seasoning of any kind. When the storm cleared away a trail was broken over the mountains to the Johnson ranch.

The largest piece of gold found on Scott River was taken from Whiting hill in 1855 and weighed approximately 15 pounds. It was in the shape of a fish and was found by James Lindsay and T. L. Wade.

Scott Bar is now a mere ghost of its former self. The blind eyes of the time-worn, decaying buildings stare ever outward, and footsteps in the street have a hollow sound like mocking laughter.

MYSTERY METAL FOUND IN RANDSBURG SECTION

Revealing the fact that mining property in the mountains southeast of Palmsdale, says the Press, is being tested for a new "mystery metal." O. B. Steen is owner of a large claim on Holcomb Creek, approximately a mile from Big Rock creek. The metal, only recently discovered, has been found especially valuable for toughening steel, also making various metals rust resisting, welding steel, iron and a number of other metals.

Recent experiments made with the mystery metal have shown astounding results. A steel rail was sawed in half and welded with the metal. Tests with the welded part subjected to white heat revealed the fact that the mystery metal not only resisted a severe strain but also added strength to the rail for a distance of approximately six inches on each side of it. It was found that the metal had a peculiar penetrating property when applied as a powder to the surface of various metals.

Subject to tests made at the beach recently, the metal prevented corrosion of steel both below and above sea water as well as where the metal was both immersed and subject to surface corrosion. The surfaces treated were bright in appearance and required no polishing.

The demand for an alloy to toughen steel to the same point attained by the mystery metal is very great Already inquiries have been received from several foreign countries as well as a large number of corporations interested in steel production.

Rust preventatives for steel have been either impractical or too expensive for practical use, and the new metal is expected to find an active market for that one reason alone.

The mystery metal is so called because problems relating to its composition and formulae have not been entirely solved yet. It has only been recently discovered and is just becoming known throughout the scientific world. Geologists, chemists and metallurgists have not identified the metal and had not the article been produced for their investigation, they would have doubted its existence. So far as is known, it is very rare and beside the Steen properties is found only at one other mine, and that on the south side of the same mountain range.

Analysis has so far revealed the fact that the mystery metal contains at least ten elements. Titanium, vanadium, uranium, nickle, tin, gold, silver, chrome and manganese are combined with the iron ore. Tests with sluphuric hydrochloric acids as well as with a still stronger acid obtained by mixing the two have successfully removed the various elements and metals with the exception of the mystery metal.

Thomas A. Hamilton, a Los Angeles mining engineer, discovered the metals on his own properties and came here to investigate the Steen holdings for the owner. In response to a question as to how the metal was obtained, Hamilton revealed the fact that intense heat was necessary to extract the metal from the ore. The ore is subjected to 3200 degrees fahrenheit before the metal is obtained. After it has been removed from the ore it is found to be unevenly mixed, that is some parts of the same piece are hard while others are soft. The metal is then amalgamated by heating in an electric furnace at a temperature of from 5000 to 6000 degrees fahrenheit. The various elements are then thoroughly combined with one piece of even hardness.

The metal was described by Hamilton as "the hardest thing made."

It is to be used for hard-surfacing tools besides building steels to a point beyond that previously attained. The metal is said to be equal to any as a conductor of electricity and has been successfully used to weld brass, steel, cast iron and a large number of other metals. No flux is needed.

Additional experiments are to be conducted and the future of the metal is expected to bring its discoverer large reward. A large body of ore from which the metal is obtained is exposed on the Steen properties although it has not been determined definitely what the proportion of the mystery metal is in relation to the rest of the metals. Assaying will be diffcult as the high temperatures necessary are not obtainable in the average assay laboratory.

The mines will be opened if the demand for metal equals the expectation of the owners and the material is obtainable in suffcicient quantities to be commercially practical.

LOWER ELECTRIC RATES ARE NOW IN EFFECT

Residential electric consumers of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company are being advised through press announcements and notices mailed that the new domestic rate will apply with the first meter readings taken April 1st, where the consumer qualifying has returned the application blanks to the local office.

This new rate, according to L. H. Hartsock, local manager of the company, will result in a considerable saving to consumers, and in order to expedite the application of the new rate the notices and advertisements are used as a medium of informing the public, and learning of those customers entitled to the new rate.

The new rate applies where residential consumers have lighting service and in addition use electric appliances totaling 1000 watts or more. The use of such appliances as percolators, irons, toasters, waffle irons, heaters or similar equipment will qualify the residential consumers to receive this rate. As for example: A householder residing in a dwelling of 6 rooms or less who has been using an average of 50 kilowatt hours has been paying $3.30 a month. Under the new combination rate he will pay $2.60 a month, a saving of $8.40 a year, making the reduction greater than the amount paid for 2½ months of service under the lighting rate. The saving in all territory will be in similar proportion.

Consumers should mail their applications immediately, or call at the local office where arrangements will be made for the application of the lower rate.

MIKE MILLER PASSES ON IN SOUTH AFRICA

The sad news of the passing of Michael M. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Miller was received here the past week. It was entirely unexpected as he had only recently written that he was enjoying excellent health. He was a native of the French Corral section and lived there and at Montezuma Hill for a number of years, later working in the mines of this section. He was constantly studying to improve himself and when the opportunity came to take a responsible position in South Africa, he was fitted for it.

Surviving besides the sorrowing wife are the bereaved parents, Mr. and Mrs. Miller, three brothers, George of Nevada City, Russell of Grass Valley and Will of Sacramento; three sisters, Mrs. Pearl Capps of Nevada City, Mrs. Carl Becker of Yuba City and Mrs. E. G. Meadows of Los Angeles.

One of the most interesting talks heard in a long time was enjoyed by the Lions Club at its Tuesday luncheon when Professor Baroooshian of the Placer Union high school delivered an address on some of the practical ways to insure world peace.

Maybe the reason that some people don't practice what they preach is because if they did they'd have to work overtime.

The morning shower refreshed the air. Warm sunshine has dried the grass. It is an afternoon to be outside.

Friends are coming for dinner—four people beside the family! And this woman is spending the afternoon in her garden.

She uses an electric range. The whole dinner was placed in the oven at one o'clock. At four, the electricity turned on and started the meal cooking. A Temperature Control keeps the oven at the proper temperature. At six, the current will turn off. The insulated oven will keep the meal warm until dinner is served.

That is the freedom you'll enjoy with electric cooking.

FULL TEXT OF JUDGE TUTTLE'S DECISION HERE GIVEN IN SUIT OF ARCHIBALD VS WESTERN MINES CONSOL:

The full text of the decision by Superior Judge Raglan Tuttle of the Nevada County Superior Court is as follows:—

Archibald, et al., doing business under name of The New England Consolidated Mines, Plaintiffs. vs. Option of the Court. Western Mines, Consolidated, Defendant

Action brought to foreclose mortgage upon certain lands in Nevada County.

Plaintiff proved the execution by defendant of a note for $55,000.00, dated September 26, 1926, and in favor of Banner Consolidated Mines, Inc. A mortgage of even date was executed and delivered, as security for the payment of said note. Through several assignments the title to said note and mortgage was vested in plaintiffs, and satisfactory proof was made to the Court that plaintiffs were and are the owners thereof.

Defendant contended that the note and mortgage were paid. In support thereof, it produced (and there was admitted in evidence) another note for the same amount and between the same parties, and dated March 1, 1927, prior to the date of the first assignment of the original note and mortgage. The original note bore the stamped endorsement "cancelled", which was impressed apparently over another endorsement made by the Empire Trust Company. How this endorsement was placed upon this note was not explained, nor is there any evidence to show when it was placed there. The transaction which lead up to the giving of the second note was testified to. Those representing the holders of the first note testified that the second note was merely an extension of the first, while Mr. Dow, representing defendant, testified that the new note was given as a renewal of the old one.

There is also some documentary evidence on the question as to whether or not the new note was given as payment of the indebtedness, and received as such. For illustration, on March 15th, the Banner Company wrote defendant, acknowledging receipt of the second note, and stating "that the payments referred to in the Mortgage are extended in accordance with this new note, and that the new note takes the place of the old for like amount, which latter note we hand you herewith".

It is well settled that a mortgage is not discharged or its lien affected by any change in the form of the debt it secures. Where a note secured by a mortgage is taken up, at or before its maturity, and a new or renewal note substituted for it, the mortgage continuance as security for the debt in its new form and there is no change in its rights of or remedies of the mortgage, unless there is an actual agreement or mutual intention of the parties that the mortgage should be discharged or the dept regarded as paid by the new note. (41 Corpus Juris P. 806-807)

When a mortgage is made to secure a debt or obligation it may stand unimpaired as such security for such debt or obligation in whatever form the latter may be, so long as its identy as a lineal successor to the original transaction is unmistakable. (In re Silver, 208 Fed. 802) (Jones vs. N. Y. Co. 101 U. S. 622-25L. E. 1030).

Whether the second note be a renewal or on extension of time on the first note, it would seem that the lien of the mortgage would continue until the debt was paid. Equity regards on the substance of things and deals with human affairs on that principle.

Defendant contends that plaintiff cannot sue on the first note, and that the second and renewed note was a discharge of the first note This is a question of fact, and not of law, but there are numerous decisions bearing upon the point. If the second note was not given and received in payment of the first, and both parties did not regard it as such, then plaintiff must prevail.

In our own state we are not without decided cases precisely in point. In the case of Bonestall vs. Bowie 128 Cal. 514, where plaintiff was permitted to sue upon a first note, the a number of renewal notes had been given, the Court said:

"The rules of law applicable to the case seems to be that the note of a debtor or of a third party, if not itself paid, does not constitute a payment unless received by the creditor under an express agreement to accept it as absolute. That the original note was surrendered and marked paid on its face was not conclusive evidence of the extinguishment of the debt which the mortgage was given to secure. (In Welch vs. Allington, supra, and Steinhart vs. National Bank, Supra, the original note was marked "Cancelled", and yet it was held in both cases that the original debt was not extinguished).

In the case of Bank of Suisun vs. Fiske, 65 Cal App. 744, the Court holds that a change of the note or the giving of a different instrument is an evidence of debt, does not affect the lien of the mortgage, and nothing short of actual payment of the debt or an express release will operate to discharge the mortgage.

The burden of proving that a renewal note was intended as a discharge is on the party who alleges it. The evidence must be so clear and satisfactory as to leave no reasonble doubt that such was the intention of the parties.

It is a general rule, that if one indebted to another by note, give another note to the same person for the same sum, without any new consideration, the second note shall not be deemed a satisfaction of the first, unless so intended, and accepted by the creditor: but if so accepted, it is a satisfaction.

(A very exhaustive note covering the foregoing principles may be found in Ann. Cas. 1915A P 1084).

Was the second note in fact received and accepted as a satisfaction of the first, and was there an express agreement to that effect?

The testimony is conflicting on this point. It will be noted, however, that after the execution of the second note, the first note was assigned by the payee, Banner Cons. Mines, Inc., to Empire Trust Company, thus indicating that the payee treated the first note as a valid and substituting obligation. Upon the first hearing in this matter, witness Dow, who seems to have represented defendant throughout the whole transaction, testified that the first note has been paid by a stock transaction. The question as to the first note being a live obligation was never raised, and defendants treated it as a valid and existing evidence of indebtedness. The Court was led to believe that the only purpose of taking the depositions which required a continuance, was to prove the details of this stock transaction. If the defendants really understood that the second note discharged the first, it is quite obvious that they would have taken that position at the first hearing, for the facts thereof were within their own knowledge.

In equity the two notes will be considered as one. No payment has been made on either. The second note has the same duedates as the first, and defendants have defaulted in the payment. A Court of equity, when its jurisdiction has been involved for any equitable purpose, will proceed to determine any other equities existing between the parties, connected with the main subject of the suit, and grant all relief necessary to an entire adjustment of such subject, provided it is authorized by the pleadings. (21 C. J. P. 138).

Where an action is in equity the Court can retain jurisdiction to adjust all the rights and equities of the parties that were within the issues and disclosed by the evidence. (McAuliff vs. McFadden 42 Cal. App. 505).

If the contention of defendant prevails, the parties will be relegated to another action which would be practically identical with the instant case. Where a Court of equity once obtains jurisdiction of a case, it will decide the whole case between the parties and not leave any part of it for future litigation. (Becker vs. Superior Court, 151 Cal. 1313).

Defendants having failed to prove by a preponderance of the evidence that there was an express agreement to the effect that the second note should be a discharge of the first, and in view of the equitable rule that the whole matter should be settled without leaving the parties to further litigation, it must follow that plaintiffs are entitled to the relief sought in their complaint.

Plaintiffs will prepare findings accordingly.

Raglan Tuttle,
Judge of the Superior Court.

CAR TRIES SHIMMY ACT DOWN THE HILL

A miraculous escape from serious injuries was enjoyed the past week when a car piloted by Louis Orzalli went over the bank near the top of the grade out of the South Yuba on the state highway to Downieville, turning over several times. In the car were Mrs. K. J. Phelan, Thomas Phelan of Tyler and Mr. Orzalli. Coming to a slide in the road, Orzalli kept as close to the slide as possible but the car went over the bank after trying a teeter totter on the edge. Mrs. Phelan received a lacerated limb which required several stitches to close and numerous body bruises. Mr. Phelan was bruised and cut and suffered internal injuries. Mr. Orzalli has a sprained wrist and bruises. The party got back to the road and were brought to the Nevada City sanitarium and Dr. Werner was called.

COURAGE IN MINING INDUSTRY

To give an idea of what the mining industry means to industrial development and employment in sections of the country where jobs are scarce, it is interesting to note the building of the Sullivan electrolytic zinc plant at Silver King, Idaho.

The average man would throw up his hands in despair at the thought of investing millions in as rugged and isolated a section of the country as this. But three big Idaho mining companies are building this plant at an expense of $2,000,000 to reclaim zinc which has heretofore been lost. Such courage and enterprise are deserving of every encouragement from state and nation. Mining gives employment to much labor and furnishes one of the best cash markets for all manner of farm crops.—Calaveras Prospect.

DONATION DAY PARADE PROVIDES SUSTENANCE

The annual Donation Day parade on Friday proved its customary provider for the treasury of the Nevada City Benevolent Society and the Society is some $450 better for the ceremonies. The procession was headed by a band, Elks, Legion, Scouts, Camp Fire Girls and school children made up a long parade which wended its way through the business section, under the guidance of Grand Marshal Dick Goyne. The Elks jauntcar was on the job and costly rides were furnished several citizens. Donations included $167.50 from the Elks, $30.06 from the Lions, $5. from the Nevada County Extension Club, high school collections $172.13 grammar school $44.00 and Legion $5.75. The Nevada County Railroad donated five cords of wood to swell the collection brought by the school children. Prof. Isenee's contribution was a sawlog which he carried in the procession.

STILL TIME FOR MONUMENTAL WORK FOR MEMORIAL DAY

While it is realized that reference to a bereavement is painful, we know that any service which may be rendered to the memory of the departed helps in a measure to dull the keenest edge of grief. The erection of a memorial is such a service.

Whether you are ready to consid- that at present we do not know, but if you feel that such consideration is possible it will be a satisfaction for you to give it, and we will be glad to place ourselves at your service.

Regardless of the amount of money set aside for this work the true memorial craftsmen will give you enduring quality and architectural refinement. Without obligation to you we offer understanding counsel and cooperation.

We have a large stock of beautiful dark granite-like polish, and all work is done in our up-to-date shop, which goes a long way to keep the prices down, and each piece of work is made to suit the individual tste.

Our granite curbing department will show our endeavor to keep prices down, as we are still erecting a first class curbing at $3.00 a foot, the same price that was paid fifteen years ago when wages for stone cutters were only one-third of what they are today. Modern machinery and quarry on the ground are keeping it going at these extremely low prices. Granite curbings and modern memorials are set up anywhere with the small additional expense of hauling.

At present time we are in a position to finish all odrers by Memorial Day. A month later it may be impossible to do so.

"The St. Francis Dam has broken! Spread the alarm!"

It was the voice of a telephone operator—another—and another.

Though in imminent danger themselves, as the black wall of water loosed its violence on a sleeping countryside, these young women in towns of the stricken area, promptly and coolly passed this midnight call of warning—warning of impending doom. Constables, town officials and others in the path of danger were notified by telephone. Instantly, with shrieking sirens and clanging bells the alarm was spread—and hundreds of lives were saved.

The world hears little of the "spirit of service" until times of emergency, but behind the scenes in the telephone world this spirit is always present. Telephone users confidently rely upon the devotion to duty of the men and women who make this service possible.
